

Advanced rescan - review analysis configuration and execution

The AIP Super Operator is responsible for reviewing the existing analysis configuration before running the analysis. In a rescan scenario, it may not be necessary to review the configuration, particularly if you are only delivering updated source code and no new technologies. If you need to review the configuration before running the analysis/snapshot, please follow the steps listed in Advanced onboarding - review analysis configuration and execution:

- Review technology specific settings as well as Analysis Units
- Review dependency configuration
- Review module configuration
